

Mr. XU Jian Feng
Vice Technology officer
China Telecom Co. Ltd. Guangzhou Research Institute

Mr. Xu has been involved in Internet in China since 1995. He started as a System Integrator supporting China Telecom. Xu is responsible for the design and building of the China telecom Next Convergent Network (CN2) backbone which incidentally is the largest IP network in world today.

Today, Xu heads the CT research team comprising of a group of research engineer. Xu travels within mainland China to give talks and share his experience of building large scale service provider IP network. Now Xu support CN2 service design and Metro network technology research.