It is now an established provider in both network infrastructure and service provision.

Wharf Communications pursues these aims through two principal subsidiaries, i-CABLE Communications Limited and Wharf T&T Limited. i-CABLE introduced pay television to Hong Kong in October 1993 and launched internet business in 1999. Wharf T&T was formed with the vision of operating Hong Kong's full service broadband telecommunications network, based on a survivable ring architecture using state-of-the-art fibre optic technology.
